Soon Red soon

Friday sunny but rather chilli at night where jackets made an appearance.

Saturday and Sunday were perfect hot sunny days with mild wind. Once again jackets hauled out at night.

Some betting for the closest score Stormers vs Bulls and R150 for 23 – 17 guess, happy Andy. Pieter watched on is cell with his data running out about a minute before the end. Anneline was left running up and down to the restaurant to check the final score. Others googling to find the final score. Chaos in the corner.

Theo and Callum went fishing. Apparently Theo caught a huge half meter long klipvis, mmm no evidence so we will leave it at half a meter Libbe and Callum picked muscles and cooked them on the open fire which sent a beautiful aroma throughout Yzerfontein.....NOT. Lol!!

A busy corner preparing breakfast

Trevor, I would keep a eye open for these two. Not sure whats going on here lol!

Me pick me eat, steamed, divine muscles.

Sally keeping her grandchildren close and her replacement bike in sight after a nasty fall off her big bike.

Oops Theo, het jy die liggie aan gelos?? Jump away boys!

The fitness club Boule champs

The hard core Atlantic Club swimmers and the unenthused fitness club!!

Thanks to the ladies and gents for the delicious puds and shooters.

Well that's another beautiful weekend away with beautiful peeps.

As some of you know the Wilsons {that's Craig and myself} are planning some traveling leaving in April until vrek knows when. Could be months could be years. Exploring Namibia, Botswana, Transkei, South Africa and maybe some other neighboring countries.. We will be camping in our home on wheels that we have grown so fond of. {Gypsy life}

We will now be the club Gypsies and will share our adventure on the clubs WhatsApp campers giggles and gags group as well as Facebook.

Stay healthy, stay safe.

Till we meet again

(sorry hormones kicking in – so dramatic lol!!)
